

HERALD AND NEWS

VOL. XXXIV. NO. 8--1779.

RANDOLPH, VT., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1907.

PRICE THREE CENTS.

Turkey Tastes Best

Right Hot Off the Platter of One of Our Imported Dinner Sets.

This pattern is one of our best sellers.

You can buy what pieces you wish.

You can get a whole set a little at a time and it will cost you no more than if bought all at once.

Everything in Cooking Dishes.

W. E. LAMSON
The Big Furniture Store.

Crawford

Cooking-Ranges

Have No Equal

The Range That Bakes

J. H. LAMSON & SONS, VERMONT

REMEMBER

While We Are Doing Your Plumbing and Heating Jobs,

We have a host of other goods for sale such as Cooking Stoves and Ranges of any and all kinds, new and second-hand. New Glenwood Ranges coming every week, from $35.00 up. Heaters, Back with Oaks and Glenwood Oaks, Air Tights and Tight Airs. Two big bargains in Round Oak, slightly used, but as good as new, one all piped for hot water for your stock automatically, no more ice in your water tank, no more old fire traps around your buildings, come and see it. One more Fur Coat and a few Horse Blankets and Robes. Utility Car Popper, a new wonder, get one. The most wonderful Oil or Gasoline Can you ever saw, with a pump for fuel, how to get the oil out is a wonder, call and see it for yourself. A kind of repair work done in the metal line, our saws are full of work, get your orders in at the front door, the work completed goes out through the back door. Further large lot of International Stock Food in the kind that everybody knows how to feed.

J. J. TREBIS & CO.

DON'T FORGET TO LEAVE YOUR ORDER FOR TURKEYS, CHICKENS, &c.
This Week for Thanksgiving Dinner.
Fresh Celery, Cranberries, Sweet Potatoes, Etc.

PHONE 18-11. JERD'S CITY MARKET, MAIN ST., RANDOLPH.

New Walnuts, All Kinds of Grapes, Florida Oranges and Grape Fruit, NEW FIGS AND DATES, ALSO ALL KINDS OF

Choice Fruit, Confectionery and Cigars. OLIVE OIL, THE REAL ARTICLE, ALWAYS KEPT IN STOCK. New England and People's Phones. RANDOLPH FRUIT CO.

NOW IN!

Fall and Winter Samples of Tailoring Goods. All New Things Right Up-to-Date.

Have arranged with one of the best Special Order Houses in New England to fill orders for garments, for those who prefer that kind of goods. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

C. J. ROCKWELL, RANDOLPH.

Hundreds of Samples to Select From.

MEN'S SUITS, OVERCOATS, TROUSERS, ETC.,

Made in the season's newest styles, also the latest patterns, all nicely tailored, serge or alpaca lined, in all the newest browns, grays and drabs, in checks, stripes and over plaids. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED OR YOUR MONEY BACK. YOU CANNOT LOSE AT Kenney, The Tailor's.

PEWESBURY BLOCK. 'PHONE 8-12.

WHAT IS DOING THE WORLD OVER.

A WORD ABOUT THE LEADING EVENTS OF THE WEEK.

Big Scheme to Bring Out Money.

President Roosevelt and Secretary Cortelyou have devised a plan which they think will have the effect of relieving the present money stringency. Acting under existing legal authority, the treasury department will soon issue $50,000,000 of Panama canal bonds and $100,000,000 or less of government certificates. The bonds will bear interest at two per cent and will be available to national banks as the basis for issuing increased circulation. The proceeds will be drawn as needed for canal construction. The certificates will bear three per cent interest and will be payable in one year from date. It is expected that money now being hoarded will be drawn out by these safe investment offers and will be available for the pressing needs of the hour, especially to move the crops from the West. From present indications the bonds and certificates will find a ready sale. President Roosevelt has issued a letter admonishing people to act normally, to do as they have been accustomed to, that things will be all right if only this is done, since there is no real reason other than apprehension, for the present disturbance. Meanwhile immense sums in gold are being brought from Europe to bolster up the financial fabric. The decline in stocks continues, but without general disaster. There is, however, a curtailment in manufacturing in most parts of the country.

Plans for the Pacific Cruise.

The sixteen battleships that are to form the major part of the big fleet destined for the Pacific are receiving their final tuning up and taking on their stores at the Brooklyn, Norfolk, Charleston and League Island navy yards. The fleet will be reviewed by President Roosevelt on the day of its departure from Hampton Roads Dec. 16. It will skirt the coast of South America and pass through the Straits of Magellan at its southern extremity, which passage must be made in a single day, it being dangerous for the big vessels to be overtaken by night in the narrow, tortuous channel. Colliers, mostly under foreign flags, will meet the fleet at various ports as it proceeds, and coal the warships. There will be long artillery practice on the west coast of Mexico where a station has been secured. When the fleet reaches San Francisco, it will receive a tremendous ovation. Then it will proceed up the coast to Seattle, Wash. After that, the plans are not given out, but it is believed some of the ships will proceed to the Philippines, others will remain in the Pacific and the rest will eventually return to the Atlantic.

Suicide Made Will, Then Died.

Charles Tracy Barney, former head of the Knickerbocker Trust company of New York, the big concern that went to the wall in the panic of a month ago, committed suicide last week by shooting himself. After he had done the shooting, still retaining consciousness, he summoned his lawyers and made a new will, disposing of $2,000,000 worth of property, of which his wife was made sole beneficiary. In half an hour he was dead.

Fighting Chicago Black Hand.

Aroused by the increasing number of outrages by the so-called Black Hand society of Chicago composed of criminal Italians, the Italian business men have organized a White Hand society to exterminate them. They have raised a large fund and will engage special officers to run down the Black Handers and bring them to justice.

Hearst Falls on One Tack.

W. R. Hearst failed in his suit to obtain a recount of the votes cast for mayor of New York city in 1905, the New York court of appeals holding in an opinion rendered Tuesday that the act providing for the recount, passed last winter, is unconstitutional. The court says Hearst still has ample remedy under quo warranto proceedings.

Saturday's Football Games.

Dartmouth 22, Harvard 0; Yale 12, Princeton 10; Williams 26, Amherst 6; West Point 21, Tufts 0; Cornell 18, Swarthmore 0; Pennsylvania 6, Michigan 0; Carleton 12, Minnesota 10; Navy 6, Penn State 0; Syracuse 4, Lafayette 4; Brown 31, Vermont 0; Norwich 6, Middlebury 5.

Bryan Will Run Again.

William J. Bryan has issued a statement to the effect that while he claims no further honor or reward at the hands of the Democratic party, the party feels that he would be a stronger candidate than any other man he will accept a third nomination for the presidency at its next year.

Governor Too Free with Talk.

Gov. Regis H. Post has been summoned to Washington to explain to the president certain remarks he is alleged to have made publicly to the effect that the school superintendents in Porto Rico are exerting a worse influence than anybody, except the missionaries.

Cannot Marry Protestants.

Archbishop Bruchesi of Ottawa has issued a pastoral letter based on the recent encyclical of the pope, in which he absolutely forbids priests to marry Catholics and Protestants. This applies to all priests under his jurisdiction.

Douma Trying Once More.

The third Russian douma is in session. The Progressivists control the lower branch, but are manifesting a co-operative spirit toward the government.

Heavy Saloon Tax Upheld.

The Ohio supreme court has held constitutional the Athens law taxing the saloons in that state $1000 each.

A New State, Oklahoma.

By proclamation of the president Oklahoma became a state Nov. 16. There are now 46 states in the union.

Randolph.

GEORGIA WHITE, Local Editor.

"In God We Trust" Omitted.

We take the motto from our coins. Perhaps to signify they're fit to be received without a warrant from on high. Since "In God We Trust" will never be Bryan's standard lie. Perhaps, if money is the root of evil, as we think. The supererogation and, of course, the image we should like. Are Satan's, in embellishment of what we call our coin.

C. G. DuBois of Winchester, Mass., was in Randolph over Sunday.

H. C. Gilbert has gone to Boston on a pleasure trip of some weeks.

Hartley Fortin has found employment at carpentering in Attleboro, Mass.

W. A. Gourley, who has been in Rochester some months, is once more in this village.

Misses Eva Fortin and Sadie Carlisle are working in the knitting factory at Northfield.

Deacon W. F. Howard was taken to the sanatorium Tuesday to recover from an attack of indigestion.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Crafts of East Whately, Mass., were guests at G. W. Panton's from Saturday to Tuesday.

Wilbur L. Nichols of Barre opened his dancing school in Grange hall Monday night with an attendance of 70 at the class and social dance following.

O. E. Colburn has severed his connection with the Grand Union Tea company and is now carrying a line of groceries on his own account in the Cushman block.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Priest have been entertaining Mrs. Priest's sister, Mrs. F. C. Danforth of Lakeport, N. H., who came last Thursday and went away Tuesday.

Mrs. Abbie Bingham still continues in a very feeble state and a niece, Mrs. Charles Leavitt, of Boston is assisting Miss Ada Burroughs in the care of the invalid.

Nov. 23 will be Thanksgiving evening at the grange. One digression from the subject of the evening will be an account of her trip to "Old Kentucky" by Mrs. J. H. Bass.

Miss Susie Gilman, who had been at the sanatorium to be treated for appendicitis, went to West Hartford Tuesday to stay until she is stronger with her sister, Mrs. Maud Peacor.

Charles Dumas has been for some time in the employ of the New England Telephone company in the southern part of the state and his work has lately taken him to Springfield.

Peter Marzolini went to Boston Tuesday for a week's stay and was accompanied by his niece, Miss Victoria Nardini, a teacher in Marshfield, who is passing her vacation in the city.

The young son of Eugene Ladue, living in Feth, was jumping out of the back of the father's wagon Tuesday morning when he caught his left foot in the spokes of the wheel and broke both bones below the knee.

Mrs. Granville Thomas of Redpoint, Okla., arrived Friday from Boston and remained until Monday at L. J. Blakely's, going back to Boston then to start for the West in which she is to reside hereafter at Bellingham, Wash.

M. C. Rowell's stock shipment Monday consisted of 10 cows at $35, 10 pigs at 5 cents a pound and 28 calves worth from 3 to 6 cents a pound. John Blanchard shipped 10 calves (2 to 6 cents), 4 hogs (5 to 6 cents) and 6 head of cattle.

Miss Clara Booth has recovered from the case of diphtheria, with which she came home sick from Newport, N. H., a month ago, and the quarantine was removed yesterday from the house of her father, William Booth, on Highland avenue.

George W. Drew's dog was lying in the road on Main street Monday when a team coming out of Weston street ran over the animal, breaking one hind leg. The dog was old and deaf and did not notice the approach of the team until too late to get out of the way. It had to be killed.

Fred Howard began Monday to run the new 25-horsepower Miami engine that is used in loading and unloading at the W. F. Eaton feed store and perhaps later may be applied to grinding purposes. The Miami is of the Woodpecker manufactory, represented in this vicinity by C. H. Taft of North Randolph.

Mrs. George S. Moulton, who has been with her daughter, Mrs. Ben Briggs, in Hartford a long time, is again at her rooms in the Walcott house and was joined yesterday by her son, William Moulton, for his vacation from the Pullman car service. The latter spent a few days in New York before coming to Randolph.

Miss Sarah M. Stearns, postmistress at Braintree, having missed various sums of money at different times, finally had her suspicions so aroused that she marked $5 bill, took its number and left it down stairs in her house on a day when she expected Mrs. Matilda Rogers to work for her.

As was anticipated, the bill disappeared and was not seen again until Mrs. Rogers attempted to pass it at Frank Batchelder's store the next day. The woman was then charged with the theft and made restitution to Miss Stearns, who would have allowed the matter to drop, but complaint was entered by others and State's Attorney M. M. Wilson proceeded to prosecute the case.

A hearing was held in Braintree yesterday morning before Justice H. W. Vail, and Mrs. Rogers pleaded guilty to the charge against her. As she appeared to be in rather pitiful circumstances and had children dependent upon her, the sentence given was only a month in the house of correction at Rutland, to which she was taken at once by Chief of Police F. H. Ketchum.

Miss Stearns is reported to have lost altogether somewhere in the neighborhood of $60, but this sum was not brought against Mrs. Rogers at the hearing.

Vermont State Grange.

A. A. Priest, secretary of the State grange, has just issued the program for the 30th annual session of the order in the Armory hall of Burlington, Dec. 10, 11 and 12.

Tuesday, Dec. 10, grange will open at 11 o'clock in fifth degree; roll call, appointment of committee on credentials and report of the executive committee will follow. At 1:30 in the afternoon, Worthy State Master G. W. Pierce of Brattleboro will deliver the annual address; officers and deputies will report; standing committees will be announced, and resolutions will be introduced, without debate. At the evening session at 7:30, the committee on credentials will report, and the third and fourth degrees will be exemplified by West Randolph grange, No. 229, J. L. Hutchinson, master.

Wednesday, the second day, the morning session will begin at 9 o'clock with unfinished business, after which will come reports of Pomona and subordinate granges, and of standing committees; the election of two members of the executive committee and suggestions for the good of the order. Wednesday afternoon Morrill Hall Agricultural building is to be dedicated under the auspices of the Vermont State grange at the University gymnasium. The evening session at 7:30 will be conferring the sixth degree, exemplifying the unwritten work and imparting the annual work.

The morning of the third day, Thursday, will be filled from 8:30 o'clock with reports of committees on mileage, finance and resolutions, and the transaction of necessary or unfinished business.

The Oberon Ladies' quartet of Laconia, N. H., will furnish music for the entire session, and it is expected that National Master Batchelder will be present Tuesday. The Boston & Maine, Central Vermont, Rutland and Woodstock railroads will give the usual convention rates from all stations. The Van Ness House will be headquarters.

Thanksgiving Day
Your bon-bon dish should be filled with

Reputation Chocolates.
The best are none too good to grace your Thanksgiving feast.

Same Quality
by quarter, pound or winsome package.

Remind Us to give you bon-bon tongs with every pound.

The Latest
magazine will amuse your guest. The place you are welcome:

Grant's Drug Store.
Retail registrations, page four.

Rev. Bertrand P. Judd of Nashua, N. H., field secretary of the International Reform bureau, spoke last Sunday morning at Bethany church, and in the evening he addressed a large union meeting at the Baptist church on "The Citizen as a Reformer."

In both of these addresses he presented the powers and duties of the private citizen in relation to the government in a strong, sensible way. He also told something of the splendid work being done by the Reform bureau in securing laws along the line of moral and social reform. He spent Monday and Tuesday visiting prominent citizens for the purpose of bringing them into personal touch with work of the bureau.

Head Nurse at Sanatorium.

Miss E. E. Folsom of Burlington has been engaged as head nurse at the Randolph sanatorium and will enter upon her duties Monday, Dec. 2.

Miss Folsom was graduated from the Mary Fletcher hospital in Burlington five years ago and has since been following her profession with marked ability and success. She is highly recommended by Dr. R. J. Andrews of that city and will, it is believed, prove a skillful nurse and efficient manager for the institution.

The local physicians have made an agreement to provide medical attendance at the sanatorium and have arranged their periods of service as follows: October and November, Dr. G. W. Scott; December and January, Dr. A. C. Bailey; February and March, Dr. F. C. Angell; April and May, Dr. C. J. Rumlill; June and July, Dr. L. A. Russell; August and September, Dr. J. P. Gifford.

A board of consultation is also to be formed.

A Good Attraction Coming.

Cook & Harris, with America's Greatest Exhibition, will be at the Chandler Music hall Monday evening, Nov. 25, with an entirely new production of moving pictures. In years past those who have attended the Cook & Harris exhibition have stamped the mark of excellence upon it and today the company is entering nearly 250,000 people yearly.

The program the company will have on its initial visit to Randolph will be varied as the world is wide and will comprise scenes of clean comedy, magic, science and highly educational views of travel, presenting as a special feature "Daniel Boone, or Pioneer Days in America."

This is a wonderful picture drama and is worth the price of admission alone. Other interesting subjects are "For Mother's Birthday," "A Trip through Siberia," "Lost in the Alps," "Pictorial Canada," "A Bad Mother," "The Night Before Christmas," "The Elks' Parade at Philadelphia" and others.

Beautiful illustrated songs are "Dreaming," "The Tale the Church Bell Told," "When you know you're not forgotten by the girl you can't forget" and others. Remember the date, but don't go if it hurts you to laugh.

Theft from Braintree Postoffice.

Miss Sarah M. Stearns, postmistress at Braintree, having missed various sums of money at different times, finally had her suspicions so aroused that she marked $5 bill, took its number and left it down stairs in her house on a day when she expected Mrs. Matilda Rogers to work for her.

As was anticipated, the bill disappeared and was not seen again until Mrs. Rogers attempted to pass it at Frank Batchelder's store the next day. The woman was then charged with the theft and made restitution to Miss Stearns, who would have allowed the matter to drop, but complaint was entered by others and State's Attorney M. M. Wilson proceeded to prosecute the case.

A hearing was held in Braintree yesterday morning before Justice H. W. Vail, and Mrs. Rogers pleaded guilty to the charge against her. As she appeared to be in rather pitiful circumstances and had children dependent upon her, the sentence given was only a month in the house of correction at Rutland, to which she was taken at once by Chief of Police F. H. Ketchum.

Miss Stearns is reported to have lost altogether somewhere in the neighborhood of $60, but this sum was not brought against Mrs. Rogers at the hearing.

Vermont State Grange.
A. A. Priest, secretary of the State grange, has just issued the program for the 30th annual session of the order in the Armory hall of Burlington, Dec. 10, 11 and 12.

Tuesday, Dec. 10, grange will open at 11 o'clock in fifth degree; roll call, appointment of committee on credentials and report of the executive committee will follow. At 1:30 in the afternoon, Worthy State Master G. W. Pierce of Brattleboro will deliver the annual address; officers and deputies will report; standing committees will be announced, and resolutions will be introduced, without debate. At the evening session at 7:30, the committee on credentials will report, and the third and fourth degrees will be exemplified by West Randolph grange, No. 229, J. L. Hutchinson, master.

Wednesday, the second day, the morning session will begin at 9 o'clock with unfinished business, after which will come reports of Pomona and subordinate granges, and of standing committees; the election of two members of the executive committee and suggestions for the good of the order. Wednesday afternoon Morrill Hall Agricultural building is to be dedicated under the auspices of the Vermont State grange at the University gymnasium. The evening session at 7:30 will be conferring the sixth degree, exemplifying the unwritten work and imparting the annual work.

The morning of the third day, Thursday, will be filled from 8:30 o'clock with reports of committees on mileage, finance and resolutions, and the transaction of necessary or unfinished business.

The Oberon Ladies' quartet of Laconia, N. H., will furnish music for the entire session, and it is expected that National Master Batchelder will be present Tuesday. The Boston & Maine, Central Vermont, Rutland and Woodstock railroads will give the usual convention rates from all stations. The Van Ness House will be headquarters.

Death of Helen Morris.
The death of Helen Morris occurred at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hutchinson, in Randolph, Wis., Saturday evening, Nov. 16. Helen was born in Randolph, Vt., Thanksgiving day of 1894, but since nine months of age had, with her mother, formerly Miss Mary Hutchinson, lived with her grandparents in Wisconsin.

Only two weeks before her death she was taken down with diphtheria, which for a time apparently yielded to treatment but later complications followed, which could not be overcome.

Helen was an unusually bright, pleasing child and a good student. With her, school days were always happy days. Her sudden taking away leaves a vacancy which can never be filled in the home in which she was so dearly loved.

Mrs. Temple's Telegram.
"Mrs. Temple's Telegram" at Chandler Music hall Tuesday night was a rickling farce from beginning to end and funny enough to make a demure Randolph audience so far forget itself as to roar in open enjoyment. In fact, it was only between the acts that mouths were relieved from the tension of a broad grin and the set creases of mirth smoothed out.

It was neither burlesque nor what is termed horse-play, too frequently the principal features of the farces with which this town has been favored in the past. It was, rather, a clever treatment and of the far-reaching effects and ridiculous entanglements proceeding from one small fib told to Mrs. Temple by her husband to explain an unaccountably long absence of his from the domestic fowls.

That fib gathered unto itself a host of other fibs and involved three households in a tangle of falsehoods from which truth had finally to set them free—a beautiful thought," as the biggest liar in the bunch piously admitted.

The play was presented by a company that knew how to bring out the humor of the situation without overdoing it and had the artistic sense not to cheapen the fine wit of the writers. The piece was elegantly staged, both scenery and costumes being beautiful.

The play, not being known in this vicinity, did not draw the crowded house it would another time, but balcony and gallery were well filled and possibly half the chairs in the orchestra were taken.

Death of Miss Margaret Carrigan.
Miss Margaret J., daughter of Thomas and Katherine (Kiley) Carrigan, died Wednesday morning, Nov. 13, in Worcester, Mass., after a brief illness.

She was born in Braintree and for some time lived in this village, from which her family removed to Worcester, Mass., about seven years ago.

Miss Carrigan was principal of the Mason street special school in Worcester and was affiliated with the city's Sacred Heart society, Infant of Prague society, St. Vincent's Aid and the Levana club.

Besides her parents, she left three sisters—Mary E., wife of Herbert Loomis of Leicester, Mass.; Rose C., a milliner, and Laura E. Carrigan, a teacher in the English high school at Worcester.

The funeral was held Saturday morning from the late home of the deceased with solemn High Mass of Requiem in St. Paul's church at 9 o'clock. The Rev. William H. Goggin was celebrant, the Rev. Patrick H. Boland, deacon, the Rev. William E. Ryan, subdeacon. The Rev. G. H. Dolan, P. R., of St. Louis church of Worcester, was seated in the sanctuary. Father Goggin delivered an impressive eulogy and the Gregorian Mass of Requiem was sung by the choir.

There was a large delegation from the Principals' club, Levana club and school teachers of Worcester in the church and the Sacred Heart sodality and St. Vincent Aid Association were represented by large numbers. The bearers were Thomas Lynch of Greenfield, Simon Carrigan, Charles Dalton, Thomas C. Carrigan of Worcester, James Carrigan and Charles Quigley of Bethel.

The floral tributes consisted of a wreath of boxwood and violets from the family, bouquet of violets from her nephew, Robert Loomis, plaque and violets and ferns from teachers and pupils of Mason street school, white roses from the Principals' club, white carnations from the Levana club and quantities of flowers from individual friends.

The committal service at the grave was offered by the Rev. William H. Goggin, assisted by the Rev. Garrett E. Dolan, P. R. The burial was in St. John's cemetery.

Advertisers and Correspondents
are asked to send in their copy early next week so that the Herald copy can enjoy Thanksgiving day, which falls on publication day. All copy should be in one day earlier than usual. L. B. Johnson.

Death of Helen Morris.

The death of Helen Morris occurred at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hutchinson, in Randolph, Wis., Saturday evening, Nov. 16. Helen was born in Randolph, Vt., Thanksgiving day of 1894, but since nine months of age had, with her mother, formerly Miss Mary Hutchinson, lived with her grandparents in Wisconsin.

Only two weeks before her death she was taken down with diphtheria, which for a time apparently yielded to treatment but later complications followed, which could not be overcome.

Helen was an unusually bright, pleasing child and a good student. With her, school days were always happy days. Her sudden taking away leaves a vacancy which can never be filled in the home in which she was so dearly loved.

Mrs. Temple's Telegram.
"Mrs. Temple's Telegram" at Chandler Music hall Tuesday night was a rickling farce from beginning to end and funny enough to make a demure Randolph audience so far forget itself as to roar in open enjoyment. In fact, it was only between the acts that mouths were relieved from the tension of a broad grin and the set creases of mirth smoothed out.

It was neither burlesque nor what is termed horse-play, too frequently the principal features of the farces with which this town has been favored in the past. It was, rather, a clever treatment and of the far-reaching effects and ridiculous entanglements proceeding from one small fib told to Mrs. Temple by her husband to explain an unaccountably long absence of his from the domestic fowls.

That fib gathered unto itself a host of other fibs and involved three households in a tangle of falsehoods from which truth had finally to set them free—a beautiful thought," as the biggest liar in the bunch piously admitted.

The play was presented by a company that knew how to bring out the humor of the situation without overdoing it and had the artistic sense not to cheapen the fine wit of the writers. The piece was elegantly staged, both scenery and costumes being beautiful.

The play, not being known in this vicinity, did not draw the crowded house it would another time, but balcony and gallery were well filled and possibly half the chairs in the orchestra were taken.

Death of Miss Margaret Carrigan.
Miss Margaret J., daughter of Thomas and Katherine (Kiley) Carrigan, died Wednesday morning, Nov. 13, in Worcester, Mass., after a brief illness.

She was born in Braintree and for some time lived in this village, from which her family removed to Worcester, Mass., about seven years ago.

Miss Carrigan was principal of the Mason street special school in Worcester and was affiliated with the city's Sacred Heart society, Infant of Prague society, St. Vincent's Aid and the Levana club.

Besides her parents, she left three sisters—Mary E., wife of Herbert Loomis of Leicester, Mass.; Rose C., a milliner, and Laura E. Carrigan, a teacher in the English high school at Worcester.

The funeral was held Saturday morning from the late home of the deceased with solemn High Mass of Requiem in St. Paul's church at 9 o'clock. The Rev. William H. Goggin was celebrant, the Rev. Patrick H. Boland, deacon, the Rev. William E. Ryan, subdeacon. The Rev. G. H. Dolan, P. R., of St. Louis church of Worcester, was seated in the sanctuary. Father Goggin delivered an impressive eulogy and the Gregorian Mass of Requiem was sung by the choir.

There was a large delegation from the Principals' club, Levana club and school teachers of Worcester in the church and the Sacred Heart sodality and St. Vincent Aid Association were represented by large numbers. The bearers were Thomas Lynch of Greenfield, Simon Carrigan, Charles Dalton, Thomas C. Carrigan of Worcester, James Carrigan and Charles Quigley of Bethel.

The floral tributes consisted of a wreath of boxwood and violets from the family, bouquet of violets from her nephew, Robert Loomis, plaque and violets and ferns from teachers and pupils of Mason street school, white roses from the Principals' club, white carnations from the Levana club and quantities of flowers from individual friends.

The committal service at the grave was offered by the Rev. William H. Goggin, assisted by the Rev. Garrett E. Dolan, P. R. The burial was in St. John's cemetery.

Advertisers and Correspondents
are asked to send in their copy early next week so that the Herald copy can enjoy Thanksgiving day, which falls on publication day. All copy should be in one day earlier than usual. L. B. Johnson.

Too Much Turkey and Mince Pie might spoil the remainder of the day for you but for our aid. Better lay in a supply of our digestive helps and pain remedies in case of emergencies.

The Drugs in Our Remedies are all as pure as it is possible to get them. The remedies are of proven merit, give immediate relief and may prevent serious complications.

H. A. LEONARD,
The "Pure Drug" Store.